WE NOMINATE

Edward Dudley Hume Johnson, a Princetonian since 1939 and an able exponent of the tradition that outstanding teaching and scholarship are integrally related. This month, as the Atlantic Seaboard turned to the out-of-doors with the jerky transition from Standard to Eastern Daylight Saving Time, this 54-year old native of Alton, Ohio, a perceptive analyst of English literature in the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries, has won unusual critical acclaim for one of the more stimulating anthologies of the spring, a 423-page volume, with the unlikely and extremely formidable title, "The Poetry of Earth: A Collection of English Nature Writings."

Unlike most bulky collections of its kind, which slip from one peak to the next in making the most of literary names of the first rank, the Johnson anthology reflects the three decades — with time out for World War II and other responsibilities — its editor has devoted to the study of English literature. His selections from the great and the long-remembered are punctuated with materials he came upon while wandering through the diaries and the often unpublished writings of men whose observations of the world around them and reputations have long since been buried from view.

What may well be the final edition of the New York Herald-Tribune's "Book Week" waxed rhapsodical. Johnson, this critic wrote, has prepared a masterly introduction to his book — one which makes clear the historical significance of this neglected field of literature. He has, in addition, provided excellent critical prefaces before each of his selections. . . . "Pre-eminent-ly it belongs on the shelves of naturalists, poets, and connoisseurs of the impromptu and unusual. The material has been chosen with an eye to each writer's personality, for his insight into living nature, and for that mystic touch, that groping after some transcendent ever-escaping reality which marks the true solitary, the seer."

Some 30 years ago, upon Johnson's graduation as a Phi Beta Kappa member of the Princeton Class of 1934, the editors of the senior annual noted that he "expects to continue his studies in the English language and literature at Oxford and will probably engage in newspaper correspondence work. They were right on the first count, for he had earned a Rhodes Scholarship, but erred on the second although Johnson had helped meet college expenses by reporting for metropolitan newspapers. The two years at Oxford were followed by his Ph.D. at Yale in 1939 and his appointment to the Princeton Department of English the same fall.

Johnson, who during four years of naval service rose to the rank of lieutenant commander, climbed steadily through faculty ranks and in 1950 was among the first young scholar-teachers singled out for Bicentennial Preceptorships, positions reserved for men of exceptional promise. The newly issued "Poetry of Earth" is in a sense related to his tenure as Philip Freneau Preceptor when he devoted his leave of absence to background-reading in the fields of philosophy, history, psychology, anthropology and science bearing upon his continuing research into the history of ideas.

For adding enjoyment to the season of the year that spins thoughts outward, or inward, toward nature; for his deep concern for the advancement of education, from his service as secondary school trustee to teaching on the post-doctoral level; he is our nominee as

This Is PRINCETON

BEHIND THE SCENES
At McCarter. What will happen to McCarter Theatre in the next few years?

Should the community of Princeton break forth on its own and acquire a theatre-auditorium?

How about forming a Princeton Art Council to act as the kind of United Fund of the arts, raising money, distributing it to "member agencies" and fostering cohesiveness among artists and craftsmen?

These are some of the provocative questions raised and tossed into the air — but not caught and answered — at two small, informal meetings held this spring at McCarter.

The nearest thing to an answer is a "Coordinating Committee for the Performing Arts" to be organized formally and a chairman chosen on Tuesday, May 17, at 8 p.m.

Who's on Next? This Committee will meet on urgent, practical and immediate need, co-ordinating everything that goes on all the time every minute of every day, at McCarter Theatre. Its members will represent the University Concert Series, the Princeton Ballet Society, Triangle Club, the Princeton Borough Elementary Schools PTA, Westminster Choir College, the Princeton Art Association, the Princeton Chamber Orchestra, several community organizations that use McCarter for benefits (see the Jewish Center's upcoming "Mad Revue," imported from New York) and, of course, McCarter itself.

Incongruously, it may seem at first, but quite coolly practical as one thinks about it, the invitation to participate in this organizational meeting will come from Robert V. Dilley, executive director of the Princeton Chamber of Commerce, and keenly interested in "area development" beyond the narrow retail scope and in the formation, some day, of a Princeton Arts Council.

The initial, probing meeting was held on February 1, last Wednesday, nine people gathered at McCarter, including Mrs. Robert Strunsky for the University Concert Series, Mr. and Mrs. L. Wendell Ealey for the Princeton Ballet Society, Seymour Mandel, representing social service agencies using McCarter, Frank Strassburger, an undergraduate from Triangle Club, Mr. Dilley and, for McCarter, Arthur Lithgow, executive director, Nancy Shannon, general manager, and John McKenna, director of public relations.

University is Landlord. It was a casual, low-key meeting, held in the long corridor outside the McCarter balcony, but it had an air of portent.

"McCarter is a private auditorium," Mr. Lithgow reminded his audience. "The University is the owner and the landlord. The theatre has become municipal, almost by the University," she said, her "we" referring to the University Concerts Series. The faculty's committee on McCarter chooses the regestory plays, asks and beseeches the town for subscription support near or after season—but chooses the plays.

Mr. Litgow, who combines engagingly the theatrical sense of a first-rate producer and actor and the digital mind of a first-rate accountant, knows precisely what the University contributes (McCarter is worth $100,000 in the University's annual budget) and how very specific the University is about the money it is to be spent. "The amount is not enough to cover a disastrous season," he says dryly.

Mr. Litgow spoke to Wednesday's gathering about the future, the University's development plans are centered around a McCarter-University Place-Alexander Street as the "center" plaza for the University of the future. What Mr. Litgow said in this scheme? Suppose the faculty decides to establish a Drama Department? What if Theatre Intime outgrows Murray Theatre and becomes Theatre Non-lintine?

Just A Suggestion. These are some of the questions Mr. Litgow and his staff want the new Co-ordinating Committee to explore—these, and broader questions of funding. "Mid Revere" with ballet School publicity and when can we fit in the Columbus Bechler? Those present on Wednesday night realize that the new committee will not have the power to advise the University. It can only ponder, study, think, and make proposals. The University knows the Co-ordinating Committee is to be formed, and welcomes its arrival, Mr. Litgow said.

Chamber Support. Now, enter from the wings, Mr. Dilley and the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Dilley sees the new Committee as the possible task force for a Princeton Arts Council and McCarter is eager for his help.

The Chamber already has a past Wednesday at McCarter were to join, plus others like Community Players, the Princeton Opera Association, the Friends of Music and the Weaver Guild, the new Arts Council would have double support.

Mr. Dilley sees possible State, Federal or foundation grants to an Arts Council, once the Council proved it had Princeton community support. "The Chamber," he says, "would be only a catalyst, to get things going."

The University is exploring the possibility of industry support for the Arts in Princeton. Mr. Litgow said, adding that the University would not raise funds for any public extension of the theatre's facilities. Mr. Dilley remarked that industry as a whole is growing in its awareness of financial responsibility for the arts.

An Arts Council, as Mr. McKenna explained on Wednesday, drawing on his knowledge of a similar organization in St. Paul, would be a kind of "United Fund" of the arts, selling an annual campaign goal based on the budgets of member organizations. Also, an Arts Council might act as a fund-raiser for a new Princeton auditorium, freedom the University to use McCarter for its own purposes and providing the town with more flexible facilities or the Council might raise the money to air-condition McCarter, or add to the existing smaller theatre units and more storage space.

Who's in Charge Here? Both Mrs. Strinsky and Mr. McKenna said that the University would probably welcome more community support, but as someone remarked, if the University and the future Arts Council combine to air-condition McCarter, who would own the air-conditioning?

Mr. Dilley would like to see the Engineering Building on Witherspoon and Green become a home for the Arts Council after the new Borough Hall is built. He reminded the gathering Wednesday that the structure was built with public—PWA—funds, and he thought it should remain at least semi-public in use. The building has small, but expandable auditorium with stage.

There is also the enticingly empty gym that formerly belonged to Miss Fine's School and is now the property of the Borough.

Ground will not be broken tomorrow for a Princeton public auditorium, but the formation of the Co-ordinating Committee indicated that some interesting offerings may be on the program in the seasons to come.

TOPICS Of The Town

ZONING HEARING MONDAY

Township Ordinance Referred. Representatives of Princeton University, the Italian-American Federation and the Princeton Housing Group are expected to appear next Monday at 8 in Township Hall when the revised zoning ordinance comes up for public hearing.

The University, which brought out its biggest guns last November to attack the ordinance's 100-foot height limitation provision, is now apparently more concerned about the 1200-foot setback provision. (The University was subsequently given permission to construct the controversial math-physics tower that set off most of the height argument.)

In an advertisement this week in Town Topics (page 21), a resident of Princeton and friend of the University states that if the 1200-foot setback had been in effect in the past, the University would not have been allowed to build 13 buildings, including Firestone Library, the Great Hall at the Hall, Dillon Gym, Palmer Physical Laboratory and McCarter Theatre.

Planning Board Chairman Hans K. Sander points out that the setback line has been drawn only where Township residential zones abut the Township area on the west, the Harrison-Western Way-Fitz-Randolph area on the east, not where Borough and Township meet on the campus. This would eliminate from the list Firestone Library, Alexander, Palmer, Guyot and McCosh Halls.

210 NASSAU STREET, PRINCETON 924-3221

"Many University buildings were constructed in the years when there was no 'Township' or a residential area," Mr. Sander says. "The situation is quite different today."

Position Explained. Two letters pertaining to the ordinance were released this week by the University. One dated January 5, was sent to the Planning Board by John F. Moran, director of the Division of Physical Planning, setting forth in a four-page document the University's objections to the ordinance, and asking for a meeting with the Board.

The second, dated April 13, was sent to Township Mayor and Committee by University President Robert F. Goheen, arguing postponement of action on the ordinance until the Planning Board can talk over the questions again with the University.

President Goheen, in his letter, states that the Planning Board never granted Mr. Moran's January 5 request for a formal, detailed meeting. Mr. Sander says that he and Committee member Walter Foster did hold an informal meeting with Mr. Moran but declined to participate in further talks when it appeared that neither side had anything new to offer.

No Flag? Mr. Moran's January 5 objections include protests about height and setback limitations and lot coverage. His letter was written before Planning Board and Committee worked out a compromise setting 100 feet as the height limit, but providing a special-permit device for taller structures.

Mr. Moran is also disturbed about the section of the ordinance prohibiting "general plant operation" at night because he is afraid University laboratories, many of which

Panel Report Due

All Borough and Township School Board members will meet for the first time with Merger Panel members this Sunday to learn the Panel's recommendations on merger. The session will be held at the Community Park School.

According to panel chairman Lester V. Chendler, the boards will receive a written report on the panel's study. Two meetings were held with each board.

If the advice they give is a merger, we would want to take some action fairly soon," Mrs. Paul Strayer, Borough president, told Town Topics.

Panel members include Stanley C. Smoyer and Simon "Marion" of the Township, the Rev. Dr. Robert R. Spears Jr. and E. Alden Dunham of the Borough.

must operate on a 24-hour schedule, would have to shut down at 11 p.m.

President Goheen, writing of "trivial technicalities," said "The University is denied the right to fly its flag in the Township."

Mr. Sander replies that "minor changes" in the ordinance

since would settle both "general plant operation" is not intended to apply to University laboratories, and the flag-flying refers to a prohibition against the kind of flag-flying seen in gas station."

The University's counsel also believes it is illegal to write into a zoning ordinance the agreement under which the University pays the Township public school costs. However, Mr. Sander states that the Board's attorney Gordon D. Griffin believes the provision would stand up in court.

Mr. Sander and Richard Tustian, representative of Kendree Associates, the Township's planning consultant, say that about 65% of the points to which the University is now objecting have been in the Township's current ordinance, passed in 1953 for 11 years. They also say that during the four hearings of the 1964 draft version, these objections were not raised.

Members of the Italian-American Federation and the Princeton Housing Group are among those expected to speak in favor of amending the ordinance to allow more lower- and middle-income housing.

ed. All Community Park School children living on Leith Avenue, Witherspoon, Race and John Streets — some 21 in all — will be transferred starting next fall to Riverside, Johnson Park and Littlebrook.

The change was made as a result of informal meetings held during the winter with parents of the boys and girls. One or two Township School Board members and Eugene Boring, principal of Community Park, visited parents in their homes and talked about school problems.

Board members found that most Negro parents prefer having their children in other schools than Community Park even if it means busing, which it will.

"The families we talked to were interested in many aspects of our school program, not merely pupil allocation," said Laurence Holland, Board member at Thursday night's regular School Board meeting.

"People talk much more freely and easily in their homes than in a large public meeting," observed Board president George E. Felt. "I suggest we use this approach in other areas of concern."

In the new allocation, all students south of Mercer Road will be transferred from Johnson Park to Riverside, all those on Race and John will also attend Riverside, all those on Leith will go to Johnson Park and all on Witherspoon, to Littlebrook. No new bus routes will be needed, said superintendent John J. McKenna.

Federation Receives Reply. Another group of Township residents with whom to have informal, small-group discussions is the Italian American Federation.

In a three-page letter, the Federation has replied to the Federation's protest against Board rejection of the Borough's "Miller Plan."

As a start, the letter reminds the Federation that on two separate occasions the Board has invited an invitation to sit down and talk over school problems and talk over school problems. It extends a third one, but of the house will be taken later, and adds: "We will call Chief McClellan and you soon to talk this over."

re-states the Board's position against the "Miller Plan" and against the allocation that Borough and Township School Boards are continuing to communicate with one another on school merger.

Neighbors Gather. Mrs. George E. Felt, Township School Board member, reported that regular weekly neighborhood meetings are being held throughout the municipality at the request of residents.

Metger, a possible Township High School and the ways of evaluating a high school are all discussed with vigor and enthusiasm. Mrs. Felt reported.

She added that many "as in real estate" meetings these living-room meetings. "I would like so much to have such a meeting with members of the Italian American Federation," she said.

In other business the Board viewed with alarm a letter from Township Engineer Frank Quishy on a proposed Board paving project for Harris Road. Residents have asked for the paving and the Board's share would be $10,000. The dead-end road adjacent to the Township School property, that the Board does not feel that paving would benefit the school.

According to state law, the Board doesn't have to pay if it doesn't want to, and on Thursday night, it didn't want to. Board member Leonard Bymerling was handled the assignment.

HOSE HANDED. On Lafayette Road, The home of Stanmore V. Wilson, 67 Lafayette Road was entered and ransacked early last week while the owners were out of town attending a funeral.

Chief Peter J. McClellan said the intruders ransacked the entire house, after entering through an open basement door. As far as our department can determine," he said, "all that is missing are 20 Italian coins which were taken from a small purse in a living room desk."

Pt. Douglas Watson and has issued an invitation to sit down and talk over school problems and talk over school problems. It extends a third one, but of the house will be taken later, and adds: "We will call Chief McClellan and you soon to talk this over."

In the Township, the office of the Heitz Bentz-Car, 260 Witherspoon Street, was the scene of a theft during the weekend of a $30 portable record player and a portable TV set. Herbert Posner of Trenton, the manager, notified the police.

According to Detective Fred Porter, access was gained by cutting a screen and breaking a window on the south side of the office. The TV and record player were removed from an office desk. Sgt. Jack Petrone and Ptl. Henry Kiese Jr. investigated.

News Of The THEATRES

THE SOUND OF A SMASH Records Breakers Advance ticket sales for "The King and I" are breaking records at McCart Theatre.

The P. J. & B. musical, an annual spring bloom in Princeton, will be presented four times, and maybe a fifth, starting Thursday, May 3, and continuing Friday and Saturday, May 6 and 7 with a matinee on Saturday.

A record has already been broken in the number of performers assigned to the cast — 188, including 72 Royal Children.

Anne Sheldon, who has appeared in all but one of the previous five P. J. & B. musicals, will be "Mrs. Anna," the teacher who undertakes to direct the youngsters of the Royal Court of Siam. Mrs.
Sheldon played Ruth in last year's "Wonderful Town," a stripper in "Gypsy" three years ago, and most notably,
Miss Adelaide in "Guys and Dolls" in 1961.

The King will be Karl Light, whose last Princeton appearance was in the autumn of 1963 in the McCart Repertory's production of "She Sings to Conquer." He was Mr. Harecastle. He appeared on Broadway in "Inherit the Wind" and off Broadway in
"The Alchemist."

McCart reminds new comers that "P. J. & B." means
"Princeton Junction and Back." Because so many members of the cast are commuters. Even, this year, director Hilton Lyon. Mr. Lyon commutes from Princeton to New York, and then comes back a gain each evening for rehearsal.

FOUR TO DANCE
In "Pas de Quatre," four dancers from Princeton and its ravings will perform in "Pas de Quatre" for the annual spring program of the Princeton Regional Ballet. The dance concert will be held at McCart on Saturday, May 14, at 8:30.

Kathleen Hult, Phyllis
Page, Linda Zettie and Alice
Mac Laurosch are the dancers.
They will perform the diversification act re-staged by Alfredo Corvino, ballet master of the Metropolitan Opera Ballet School, from the original choreography of Anton Dolin.

"Pas de Quatre" was first danced in London in 1845 to show off, in one composition, the four greatest ballerinas of the day. The four dancers perform together and also dance individually in variations which display the dancer's own particular skill.

In addition, the May 14 program will include "Les Syl-phides" and two contemporary works: Jerry Ross jazz ballet
"The Covenant" and Naima Prevost's "Odi." A special children's matinee on Sunday, May 15, will offer "Peter and the Wolf."

OSBORNE NEXT
For Players, "Epitaph for George Dillon," by that angry angry man, John Osborne, will be the next Princeton Community Players' production.
Lois Lipka has signed on as director.

Tryouts are open to all.
They will be held next Monday and Tuesday at 8:30 at 213 Constitution Drive, following an open Players' meeting this Friday.

THE GROUP: Kathleen Widdows, Larry Hagman and Carrie Nye in a "tribe's" crowd scene from the film version of Mary McCarthy's best seller, "The Group," now of the Playhouse.

News Of The Theatres

At the Sunday meeting, members and guests will be entering the John Taylor, performing in three original sketches.

DRAMA WORKSHOP HERE

For Two Days in P.B.S. Festival '66, a drama workshop, will hold the stage at Princeton High School Thursday and Friday nights, beginning each evening at 7. Seven other schools will join the PHS Reception. Workshop, with the intermissions to be marked by music and song.

On Thursday, the performance will include Princeton High's "Taming of the Shrew," "Sunday's First Pennies" by Kennedy High; "Hello Out There" by Central Bucks; and Cathedral's "The House of Bernardo Alba." The Madrigal Singers of PHS will be among those entertaining between the performances.

Friday night will be marked by Memorial High's "Purgatory," Salem High's "Short Haul," Johnson's "Caden and Trenton," "Spoon River Anthology" by Livingston High and "Impromptu" by Freehold High. Awards will be presented at the end of Friday's program, with both nights open to the public without charge.

PLAYHOUSE

The Group (now playing) is a fast-moving, hot-blooded film about the crises in the lives of eight girls who formed "The Group" as members of Yassar's Class of 1929.

It begins with a wedding and ends with a funeral, with assorted love affairs, marriages and careers in between. The film is an uncommonly faithful adaption of the Mary McCarthy novel upon which it is based.

Most of the eight young actresses are unknown to filmgoers. Outstanding are Candace Bergen as Shirley Shylock, Patricia Richardson as Patricia, and Jessica Walter as Libby.

The film is a masterpiece of the Thirties, the ironic contrast of "The Group" school song with the events of the girls' lives, and the wonderful use of color to suggest the mood of the film, the audience will find it a most rewarding experience.

Women particularly will like what they see.

GARDEN

A Thousand Clowns (now playing) is a wistful, whimsical play called "A Thousand Clowns" came to Broadway, beginning a year-long run. The screen version, written by the playwright, Herb Gardner, is even better, for the technique of the motion picture has allowed much exploring of the bustle and scramble of New York City.

The cast includes four from the original: Janna Roubins in the lead as the unemployed, non-conforming TV writer; Barry Gordon as his precocious young nephew; William Daniels as the stuffy social worker; and Gene Saks as the objectionable TV performer. Barbara Harris appears as the other half of the social worker team that investigates Roubins' agent-brother tries to get him into a job and hold.

IT'S NEW To Us

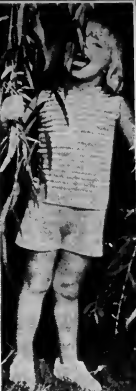

SNOWSUITS? OFF!
Sensational! Well, Pretty Soon.
Sleeves are tossed aside, knees opened to the sun and small midriffs tickled by the cool in a new group of children's play clothes — Allen's.
And the thing we like most is that the garments are sturdy and well-made to serve countless brothers and sisters as hand-me-downs.

Danskin makes a happy play group of boys and girls. T-shirt sleeves for sizes 2-14. They are bright candy pink, soft slip petal pink, navy, bright China blue, buttercup yellow, pink, blue or navy.
These Danskins can be tossed into the washing machine and into the dryer without losing anything but the dirt, and we'll bet your youngsters live in them from the first wash.

Shorts are $3.50 and $3, depending on size. The sleeveless shirts are $4, and $5 for the stripes. Socks are $4 and $5.

Polly Flinders spends the warm days in a sleeveless smock. A young friend is terribly sophisticated in a Hawaiian print with ruffie at the hem. A calico dress is just the same, with smaller flowers. The little Grayvies are the most endearing dress-if you can call it that — on the 7-14 rack. Prices start at $2.99 for the littlest sizes.
A hanky print in red bandana with a 1968 touch. A light blue denim with a slide-wrap look, has a half-inch band of calico swatches
around its Henley neck and an applique of a girl's face in orange Heliconia stretch.
That Henley neck! If you haven't got it, you might as well not show up at school,
that's all. Allen's shows it on a cotton shirt for boys and on a brand new sweatshirt.
It's even been used on a woven cotton sport shirt, solid or plaid. Did you ever?

Yellers has been used for the V-neck boys' shirts, sizes 8 to big-brother 20. These are white, navy or maroon with narrow contrasting trim around the neckline.

IT'S MY DANSKIN! Danskins are almost as cool and comfortable as skin itself. These summer light-weights are at Allen's. (See "It's New to Us.")

Surfers, starting with sail-— and you know what language demons they are — will wear the swim trunks with the characteristic four-eyelid lacing and that lean-jawed look.
Allen's has one with a navy
band of calico swatches
around its Henley neck and
an applique of a girl's face in
orange Heliconia stretch.
That Henley neck! If you haven't got it, you might as
well not show up at school,
that's all. Allen's shows it

Well, we were diverted momentarily from the little girl. They are swimming in two-piece bathing suits on Saturdays and one piece bathing suits on Sundays, just to show you the variety this season.

A one-piece polkadot (navy, red with white) has a low cut-ted skirt and rickrack trim.
It comes in a two-piece as well, and has a matching Gypsy for modesty on the boardwalk.

Little girls can have the surfer look, too. And if you haven't seen a two-piece toddler's bathing suit with a sur-fer look, you've been building sand-castles on the wrong beach.

WAKE ME AT 7
A Nap in the Shade, Watercolor blues and greens on that floral chaise at Nassau Interiors, the cloud-white one with the curving scroll arms, are so inviting you'll be tempted to sink right down in it, and have a summer nap.

The white chaise, garlanded with ivy, is wrought-iron of course, but the upholstery is most definitely not. It provides softening apple on the spring arrichair that matches the chaise and the matching sofa that matches the armchair. One big family.

We happen to like that white wrought-iron and the contrast it makes with the blue-green upholstery, but perhaps you're verdigrisee?
If you are — it sounds like malden — but is quite different — Nassau Interiors has a round table with diamond mesh top in deep verdigrisee. The table has a graceful pedestal rather like an opening flower, and a semi-circular bench to sit on while you munch lunch.
Same table comes in oblong.
By the way, with six matching chairs. Sit on them as is, or use bright colored pads.

Ripped, frosted glass is the top of a round wrought-iron table with the slimmest little pool chairs. Nearby, you might see the love-seat in

him there, but to do so is like trying to harness quicksilver. Robards lives in a one-room walkup in New York with his nephew in a happy state of clutter until the Kildy Weller Bureau team comes calling. There are kooky moments of romance, soul searching, abandonment of conventions and repressions being freed.

Also, there are fine performances and a fluidity of camera movement that merge into a film many will enjoy, although the end result is not for the very young.

PRINCE

The Fight to the Phoenix now playing is a compelling suspense-drama. It opens with the crash landing of a lumbering cargo-passenger plane in a remote part of the Sahara Desert. Two of the 12 passengers are killed, a third is injured beyond hope of recovery.

The efforts at survival, based upon a genuine incident, make a powerful story. There is conflict, bravery, cowardice, ignorance, and treachery.

Much of the tension is generated by James Stewart as the bush league pilot, and Hardy Kruger, the German airplane designer who is forced to try to reconstruct the plane, with Richard Attenborough as the patient pacemaker. Highly competent performances are turned in by Peter Finch, Ernest Borgnine, Don Duray, and Ronald Fraser and Christian Marquand, with Barrie Chase making a brief appearance as an Oriental dancing girl.

"BEYOND THE FRINGE" Playhouse Opener. The satirical revue "Beyond the Fringe" will open the Bucks County Playhouse 1968 season this Saturday playing the new hope theatre through May 14.

The revue consists of a dozen comic sketches including "Afternoon of War," a spoof of World War II documentaries with the suggestion that war is wonderful because it gives everyone a chance to be a hero.

Another sketch is "So That's the Way You Like It," a parody of some of the plays written by that man who lived in Stratford.

white mesh with its yellow-white seats and the two swiveling chairs across the coffee table from you.

Perhaps the most unusual use of wrought iron at Nassau Inn is in the Gothic-arched room divider. Here is a narrow pipe frame 20 inches wide, in quiet olive green with ripple-glass shelves narrow enough to be used alone in a small space or with identical pieces in a wider area. And coolly spacious for a summer porch.

But all is not wrought. Nassau Interiors has a very sporty director's chair with a real leather sling for back and seat ($31.95), and more conventional director's chairs with canvas in various shades of cheer.

California peel cane chairs can be pale and tawny or richly sun-tanned. Nassau Interiors has both. There are love-seats, too, and matching circle tables.

IVY LEAGUE

Potted, Ivy, lovingly trained around a frame to grow in a cone, would be a charming addition to a shady patio this summer. Obal's Garden Market around the curve and over the hill on Alexander Street in West Windsor, has these three-foot-tall pots with the ivy delightfully come shaped for you to take home.

Another trained plant at Obal's is the espaliered flex clematis Burfordi ($19.50), already in full green leaf and berry. Next to it is a juniper (Tortuosa) espaliered and obviously proud of its formal appearance. ($25.50). Splendid with a modern house and garden.

Orange for Princeton!

If it isn't true orange. It's about as close as you can come. Bright apricot, let's say.

We're speaking of a collection of violas we saw at Obal's Garden Market, and we can't imagine anything more diverting for a Princeton garden than a closely-packed bed of them.

Mix with some of those passies so dark in purple they're almost black, and you've got a conversation piece.

The violas are next to the penny boxes at Obal's so you can mix and choose for yourself.

New at Obal's this year is a collection of nice big cliche

MUSIC

In Princeton

MISS COTTON COMING
With "Ramblers," Elizabeth Cotton, venerable folk-singer now in her seventies, will be guest artist with the New Lost City Ramblers when they come to Alexander Hall Saturday, May 14, at 8:30. The Princeton Folk Music Society is the sponsor.

Tickets are now on sale at McCarter and the Princeton University Store, and by mail to McCarter Theatre, Box 526.

Miss Cotton will perform her own compositions as well as others; in the two-finger style known to guitar players as "Cotton-picking." She grew up with this traditional form of musical expression and introduced both technique and songs from her family.

The Ramblers consist of Mike Seeger, John Cohen and Tracy Schwarz, all urban-born, far from the countryside whose music they interpret.

They have recently toured Australia, Europe and England, and were especially well received in England, where much of their music has its roots.

THE MASS, UNCUT

Bach Work to be SUNE. A complete and uncut performance of the Bach Mass in B Minor will be presented on Monday, May 16, at 8 in McCarter Theatre by the 75-voice Westminster Choir and the New York Chamber Orchestra.

Dr. George Lynn, music director of Westminster Choir College, will conduct. Musicologists writing program notes for the event, remind music-lovers that Bach himself probably never heard an uncut version. The first two sections — the Kyrie and the Gloria — were completed in 1733 as a Missa Brevis in the hope of receiving a court appointment. Bach presented the music to Augustus III, Elector of Saxony.

Many years later, in the late 1740's, Bach began transcribing the brief mass into a complete one, freely borrowing from the church cantatas that he had written earlier. The actual period of composition, therefore,

Like "Up" Style?

Two folk groups with Princeton antecedents will perform this Friday around 10 p.m. at The Next Door, First Presbyterian Church basement.

All post-high-school-young — adults are invited. Bring birth certificate. Performers will be "The Other Four," a folk quartet, and Larry & Debbie, a folk duo. Both groups specialize in the "up" style of music within the folk tradition.

About that birth certificate... you knew we were kidding, didn't you?

TAPE ME A TUNE

Student Works Programmed. Two concerts of music by graduate student composers in Princeton University's music department will be given next Wednesday and Thursday, May 4 and 5, at 8:30 p.m. in Room 110, Woolworth Center. The public is invited.

Twelve student composers, not necessarily in a time row, will present their works. They are students of Earl Kim, Milton Babbitt and Godfrey Winham. The compositions are scored for small groups of instruments, some with electronic sound as well as instruments, some with tape alone.

On Wednesday, the program will consist of a song by Philip Warren to words by D. H.

pots for nice big summer plants. A cylinder, two feet tall, is encircled by regular corrugations that give a pleasant texture. It comes in a sandy clay color or that muted green-grey that's so effective on a hot summer day. $11.

A wide pot—about 4 feet—would say—has a clay-colored high glaze and a low relief band of fruit garlands in the same color as the pot. It's $9.80.

Your favorite redwood tubs, brass-banded, have been joined this spring by natural wooden tubs, black-banded. And in addition to the tub shapes, there are oblong boxes.

Obal's reminds you with a sign that "Every green thumb needs a red clay pot." And sure enough, those hard-to-find red clay pots are lined in a modest row, some classic in form, others flaring with flair.

It's rose-planting time, and Obal's presents its tea roses, geraniums, grandifloras and climbers in strong paper cylinders. Just slip, open, plant, and wait for fragrance and beauty.

And here, in the wings at Obal's, waiting for the spotlight, so are the giant rhododendrons and the myriad perennials in their little boxes.

CHOOSING CARPET PATTERNS

The period of your furnishing will certainly influence your choice of a definite carpet pattern.

Some carpet patterns are muted and can be used with a variety of decorating schemes. Others are meant to underscore a definite style. Since patterns conceal several colors in distinct designs, decorating with them requires a bit of planning.

There are four basic areas in which you can use patterns: On the floor, on the walls, in draperies, or in upholstery. When using more than one pattern in a room — let one pattern dominate.

Since the floor and the wall are the most dominant surfaces in a room, it is usually wise to use pattern on only one or the other.

Carpet patterns are practical underneath and offer a "buffer" in decorating scheme. You will probably change your drapery or upholstery fabrics more often than you change your carpet, so it's wise to pick up any one of the dominant colors in a carpet pattern for other furnishings to vary your decorating scheme. Generally it's wise to use a darker tone for the carpet and a lighter tone for the walls. Blending colors is much easier than trying to match colors exactly.

Treat sculptured textures and tone-on-tone patterns as if they were solid colors. This effect of "pattern" on the floor is subtle and does not interfere without dominating the rooms or excluding the use of pattern elsewhere.

At E. Bahadurian & Son, with our many years experience in coloring rugs, we feel qualified to assist and advise you in the selection of rugs and carpets for your home. We have the facilities to handle any carpet job, room-size or wall-to-wall.

Both our Oriental rug and service and our domestic carpet sales and service are conducted by appointment only. This ensures that you are seen personally when you come to our showroom.

Lawrence and two Italian songs by Nello Mastromeo. Janice Harsanyi will be soprano soloist in the String Trio by Fred Lerdahl and Victor Rosenbaum will be heard in premiere, and there will be a performance of George Edwards' Piano Piece. On Thursday, audiences will hear Hubert S. Howe's "Composition for Two Speakers," "Dislocations" for live alone by Jonathan Laitin and "Fluctuations" for flute and tape by Gerald Worfield. Joel Gressel's piece.

The instrumental compositions will be a group of pieces for three flutes by John Hess; for French horn and piano by Joel Gressel; and for flute and viola by Norman Dierstein.

CHAMBER GROUP PLAYS
All - Mozart Program. On Monday night, the Princeton Chamber Orchestra, directed by Nicholas Harsanyi and featuring the Westminster Choir, presented its final Princeton concert of the season at McEntar Theater. Mr. Harsanyi chose an all-Mozart program which included one masterpiece and three lesser works by the master from Salzburg. The concert began with the Ave Verum Corpus, K.618 for Chorus and Strings, a very brief little work which displayed little sound from the chorus and for too heavy a tone from the string ensemble which was supposed to be accompanying the choir. The performance seemed to begin and end before the audience had become comfortably settled.

Then, Mr. Harsanyi led his forces in a performance of the Sinfonia Concertante for Violin, Viola and Orchestra, K.364. The soloists in this most noble of Mozart creations, were Helen Kwalwasser, Violin, the concertmaster of the orchestra, and Karen Tuttle, viola, the first violinist of the ensemble.

These two artists gave very creditable performances. Indeed, Miss Kwalwasser plays with musicianship, if not with virtuosity, but she plays with a thorough understanding and feeling for the music which is more than one can say for many virtuoso performers. Miss Tuttle's playing was truly superb. She presented a vigorous viola tone, full of conviction, and expressed it with a verve and passion not often heard in the violists of today.

The duet passage between violin and viola were beautifully balanced and a treasure to behold. Had the orchestra ensemble behind the fine playing of the two artists given more stimulating interpretation by its conductor, the Sinfonia Concertante would have been one of the orchestra's more memorable performances.

As it was, Mr. Harsanyi conducted the music in a stylized fashion, over-emphasizing the soloist's genius, and placed in the background. A case in point is the gorgeous scale passage in the violins in the first movement, a passage through legato phrase, coming in on the off beat. The conductor seemed to be so much of its accepted quality, thereby breaking up this line into smaller fragments.

In general, the slow movement was beautifully played but the finale was weak. The orchestra seemed to lack spirit: the sound of the strings was not as well defined as in past performances by this ensemble.

Following the intermission, Mr. Harsanyi directed the orchestra in Mozart's Symphony No. 35 in B Flat, K. 319. This is not one of Mozart's most inspired efforts. The earlier No. 25 in A is far superior as are, of course, the final six, starting with No. 25.

The concluding work on the program was the "Vespera solenne de Confessore," K. 359 for chorus, soloists and chamber orchestra. The soloists included Lois Lavery, soprano; Lucille Lynn, alto; Robert Simpson, tenor and Ramon Ryser, bass.

Miss Lavery had the lion's share of the vocal work and though her voice is not a large one, she sang tastefully. With the exception of the Laudate

Chamber Group Praised

"An ensemble of strings polished in many precise in execution and stylish in their musically approach."

With these words, Paul Hume, music critic of the Washington Post, described the Princeton Chamber Orchestra, which performed in Washington, D. C. in the President's Cabinet Series of concerts.

Irving Lowens of the Washington Star, commented on the "homogeneity of sound" achieved by conductor Nicholas Harsanyi in the three flutes by John Hess; State Department Auditorium. He added that the orchestra was "so good that the questions of acoustics simply didn't enter the picture."

Janice Harsanyi, soprano soloist in Britten's "Les Illuminations" was praised by Mr. Hume as "a musician of outstanding gifts."

Domum, a most beautiful portion of this score, the work is certainly not even close to Mozart's inspired best. This may have affected the choir's performance, for it was surely devoted to the works of a single composer. If one had to choose a specific composer for such a purpose, however, Mozart would certainly be a wise choice; but then, why not program the Haydn Symphony and the great Requiem in addition to the Sinfonia Concertante? If the orchestra forces need to be enlarged, so be it. Compared with the attendance for the Series 1 and II concerts, the Princeton Chamber Orchestra has been playing to a half-filled hall. There is a great quantity of fine music for a chamber orchestra of this type. It should not be so difficult to arrive at the selection of interesting and well-balanced programs.

PAYS THREE FINES

In Traffic Court, Miss Gladys E. Bailey, 55, North Post Road, Princeton Junction, was fined $15 Monday by Borough Magistrate Theodore F. Trans Jr. for failing to report an accident; $15 for careless driving; and $30 for leaving the scene of an accident. In addition, her license was revoked for 60 days. Gibson Delaney, 19, of Hightstown, also paid $30 and lost his license for one year for leaving the scene.

Mrs. Frances K. Meszner, 50, River Road, Belle Mead, who struck the eight-year-old daughter of Governor and Mrs. Hughes at a borough intersection earlier this month, was fined $15 for failing to yield to a pedestrian. She pleaded not guilty.

Bruce S. Bauman, 17, 15 Oxford Circle, Skillman, who was involved in a crash with a car while driving his motorcycle on Olden Street last week, paid $15 for an unregistered vehicle offense. A careless driving charge was dismissed.

The other driver, Mrs. Holly S. Thomas, 19, of Hightstown, paid $15 for failing to yield upon entering a street from a driveway, $15 for having no license in her possession, and $10 for neglecting to notify the Motor Vehicle Division of a change of address.

Chester E. Wooten, 21, 14 Witherspoon Street, paid $23 for speeding and $15 for driving with no lights. Speeding fines of $20 and $18 were levied respectively against John P. Habib, 102 Jamieson Drive, and Mrs. Victoria M. Duval, 9 Birch Avenue, both 25 and both from Pennington.

Mrs. Nita Linn Cates, 19, 32 Witherspoon Lane, drew a $10 fine for no license in possession. A second charge — unregistered vehicle — was dismissed. Kenneth R. Matthews, 19, 30 Herzer Street, paid $15 and surrendered his license for 30 days for careless driving.

In criminal court, Gary B. Wallers, 23, 2214 Graduate College, was fined $25 as a disorderly person. He was charged by Sgt. Theodore Lewis with trying to uproot a newly-planted tree on Witherspoon Street — a charge he denied.

To another disorderly person charge, Peter Tesko, 21, 278 Alexander, was ordered to pay $10 court costs for making an — Continued on Page 11

OPEN HOUSE TOUR SET
By Radcliffe and Holyoke Clubs. Refreshments will be offered at Strawberry Hill Farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hughes Jr. in the Radcliffe-Mt. Holyoke Open House Tour on May 14. Participants will visit nine homes.

The Strawberry Hill barn, which will serve as refreshments headquarters, is a relic of post-Civil War days when it housed the Rockwood Dairy. Today it is furnished with 18th and 19th century antiques including a Louis XV Sevres tea set.

Tickets for the tour may be purchased at the University Store, Bamberger's, Hinkson's, any of the four houses or by mail from Mrs. Charles H. Hughes Jr., 150 Mercer Street. Proceeds will go to the scholarship funds of the Radcliffe and Mount Holyoke Alumnae Clubs.

TOUR PLANNERS: Mrs. Henry Zende, chairman of the hospitality committee, and Mrs. James Chandler, president of the Mount Holyoke Club, make plans for the May 14 Open House Tour at Strawberry Hill, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hughes Jr. The century-old building will serve as refreshment headquarters for the tour.

STUDENT SATISFIED
After being hit by Car A, Princeton University sophomore is recovering in the college infirmary, after being hit by a sports car early Sunday morning in front of 11 University Place.

Lawrence W. Tuttle, 19, 22 Hamilton Hall, was taken to Princeton Hospital by the First Aid and Rescue Squad and admitted for treatment of head lacerations and a cerebral concussion. He was later released to the infirmary.

John L. Koethe, Jr., 20, 6A Campbell Hall, a University junior, told police he was traveling about 30 to 40 mph when the victim suddenly stepped backward into his path from where he was standing while talking to people in a parked car. Mr. Tuttle was given emergency first aid by Officer Allen R. Benkert, who added that his investigation indicated the victim was thrown partly over the roof of the sports car and across the car's upper right side. His windshield was shattered by the impact.

The car, a 1968 Austin Healey, was owned by Lewis P. Macdame, 214 Fonkale Hall. Mr. Koethe was charged with careless driving; Mr. Tuttle with impeding the flow of traffic.

Leo S. McCloskey, 39, 21 Bank Street, hit a parked car on Chambers Street late Saturday morning as he swerved when his attention was diverted by a blowing horn. Owned by Ads A. Lloyd, 47 Tulane Street, the parked car was forced over the curb into a parking meter by the impact.

Mr. McCloskey was ticketed for careless driving by Sgt. Robert Anderson. He refused medical attention for a bloody nose.

Two accidents occurred in the Township early Sunday morning.

of Trenton, skidded into railroad Route 206 near Edgemoor. His car, moving sideways, jumped the opposite curb, continued on some 53 feet and leveled three small plane trees on the property of Richard Westervelt, 264 Stockton Road.

Two passengers, Lyane Goodwin, 17, and Claudette Haba, 16, both of Lawrenceville, refused medical attention for minor injuries. There were no charges.

At 1:37, a 1966 convertible driven by Raymond Williams, 24, of Edison, and a 1965 Mustang driven by Howard C. Peterson, 22, of New Canaan, Conn., came together at the Kingston Bridge. Peterson and William H. Morgan, 25, both of the Graduate College, were treated at Princeton Hospital for cuts and abrasions and released.

Mr. Williams received minor injuries. He told township police he felt his car slipping on the approach to the bridge and was unable to make the curve. He was charged with failing to keep right.

LIQUOR CHARGE LEVIED

Against Peacock Inn, Borough police conducted an investigation early Friday morning at the Peacock Inn, 20 Bayard Lane.

At 1:30 a.m., Sgt. Robert Anderson, P.I. Ralph Proccacio and Officer Allen Benkert observed drinks being served to a group at the bar of Peacock Alley, a cocktail room located on the lower level of the Inn. "There were seven people in the room excluding the bartender," Chief Peter J. McCrohan reported, "and all but one had drinks in front of them and were apparently drinking."

Liquor cannot be served on any licensed premises in the Borough after midnight. Sgt. Anderson filled the charge and Chief McCrohan said it will be served when the Borough Administrator Robert Mooney returns.

HERE'S FAMILY SERVICE

Annual Meeting Tuesday. How Family Service works with the community is the theme of the annual meeting of the agency to be held next Tuesday at 6 in the Woodrow Wilson Building, Washington Road.

The public is invited to attend the meeting and to participate in one of the four panels that will explore the part played in community life by Family Service.

THREE FOR FAMILY SERVICE

The annual public meeting of the Family Service Agency of Princeton will feature panels on Substance Abuse, the Juvenile Referee Committee, Churches and Public Welfare. Three of the panel chairmen are shown making final plans. (Left to right) Miss Katharine Leonard, Henry Broad and Chester Strop. Absent: Anthony Maruca.

Chester Strop, Borough superintendent of schools, will moderate a "Schools" panel consisting of Kenneth Michael, principal of Princeton High School; Mrs. Ruth Lotz, guidance counselor at Witherspoon school; Mrs. Martha Montgomery, psychologist for the Township Schools; Mrs. Alicia Gottlieb, school social worker for the Hightstown Schools and Mrs. Elizabeth F. Trimble, executive director of the Family Service Agency.

Miss Katharine Leonard, former director of the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor, will moderate a "Public Welfare" panel whose members will be Mrs. Jane Ahrens, director of public welfare for the Borough; Mrs. David McCall, Family Service board member and Lewis Schwartz, staff member for Family Service.

The "Juvenile Referee" panel will be guided in its discussions by Henry Broad, Princeton attorney and member of the Family Service board. Panel members will be C. A. O'Reilly, Hightstown Juvenile Referee Committee; Ralph Trynka and Robert Stahl of the Cranbury Juvenile Referee Committee and Mrs. Matthew English of the Family Service staff.

Anthony Maruca, another Family Service board member, will serve as chairman for "Churches" assisted by the Rev. Harold Thomas, minister of Witherspoon Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Charles G. Newberry of Trinity and Miss Marion J. Stano, staff member of Family Service.

QUESTION CBS PETITION

New School Opens May 12. The CBS-sponsored school merger petition signed by 900 Borough voters drew a mixed response at the Borough Board of Education meeting on Tuesday.

Also at the session, the board announced that the new John Witherspoon Elementary School will be formally opened on Tuesday, May 12. Students will parade behind the high school band from Quarry Street to Nassau Street to the new school at 1 p.m. After a brief orientation period, classes will be dismissed until Tuesday, May 17. School furniture will be moved in the interim.

Which K-12? "We continue to advocate K-12 merger with the Township," the citizens' petition stated, urging the board to prompt action. The question arose as to exactly what the signers meant. The Miller Plan, the annual merger plan of October

PAHR Commends Council.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
At the last Borough Council meeting, an ordinance was passed that will insure that contractors hire their work forces without discrimination. Such fair employment practices are of course required in Federal and state contracts, and fair employment ordinances are being enacted by local governing bodies throughout the state. The Princeton Association for Human Rights would like to commend the Borough Council for passing this ordinance. Money used for construction is obtained from all of the people and it is proper that the expenditure of these funds should be carried out by contractors who will not discriminate.

Letter from an Angry Man.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Although I have been away from Princeton for one and one-half years, I still receive the papers and I get so angered every time I read certain articles on certain subjects. By what authority do the people of Princeton keep referring to the Negroes and Italians in a separate class? Is it just presumed that all Negroes and Italians are automatically low-classed income people? What about your Irish, Scottish, English, etc?

I lived in Princeton all my life (15 years married years) and we moved because of the cost of living — but, we were in no means "littering our nests." Our income was well into five figures. Just where do you fine people draw the line? Because a man earns an honest living as a janitor (which my deceased father was for over 40 years with Princeton University), teacher, garbage collector or policeman (which I was for eight years) does that make him even less in stature than a Wall Street broker or corporation lawyer?

Some of the finest people in Princeton are the "little people." Push them out and what have you — Princeton? Why, oh why, doesn't the town wake up and see what harm it is doing by high taxation and such tax-shed rules and regulations?

Just install a community center and you will have a place where you can effectively deny a opportunity to an angry man great concern in this case, the area my family and friends still reside — what are you doing to my home-town?

firm, Frank W. Warneke, vice-president, was present at the meeting.

Proceedings ground to a halt when Mr. Tompkins rose to say that Macy was opposing Mr. Warneke's application on the basis that it was premature. He announced that on August 1, Macy was the landlord an additional building notice that it planned to enlarge its Bamberger store in Princeton by 30,000 square feet.

On August 26, Charles A. Cronheim, vice-president of planning and development for Macy, wrote a letter to Mr. Warneke giving Macy's approval to the proposed A&P market, subject to any parking requirements involved. Bamberger's would lose 19 parking spaces.

Claiming the two letters had crossed in the mail, Mr. Tompkins maintained that Mr. Cronheim no doubt felt Macy had a priority over A&P. "We knew nothing about this," he added, "but we got the case today." He said Macy would go into court if it had to. "We are totally unprepared," he told board chairman Russell Van Cleave. "To contest this application, we need an attorney on its merits." At this point, Mr. Van Cleave, said "This gets a little sticky."

Earlier he had warned, when he saw the direction the arguments were taking, that "this board is not competent to argue who has priority." Mr. Tompkins, in his presentation, had said that "at worst, the board should consider both applications at the same time." He also had implied that any decision on the A&P application might prejudice that of Macy's, which drew the sharp rebort from Mr. Van Cleave that every case before the board was heard strictly on its merits.

This checkmated the board adjourned at 11:15 minutes. A executive session which lengthened to half an hour.

Mr. Van Cleave then read the board's decision: "The application by Macy is given priority and the any granting of variance to one may effectively deny a opportunity to an angry man great concern in this case, the area of buildings exceeds the allowed percentage of aggregate built area, then as a matter of courtesy (although the statutes do not require it), other tenants should be notified since their interests could be involved, as in this case. The Board of Adjustment will not allow itself to become involved in litigation nor to be subject to a charge of possibly being arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Therefore, to allow the parties an opportunity to resolve their differences prior to formal presentation and to allow objectors to adequately prepare their case, this matter is continued for another month.

In its only other action, the Board unanimously granted a space-ratio variance to Joseph L. Bolester, 124 Parkside Drive, to build a four-bedroom addition to his house. Mr. and Mrs. Bolester have 11 children.

NEW MEMBERS APPOINTED

To Adult School Board. Mrs. Dwight A. North and Mrs. John A. Hartigan have been appointed to serve until 1969 on the board of the Princeton Adult School.

Mrs. Robert V. Dilley, chairman of the board, has announced that the curriculum for the fall term, which will begin September 29, has been formulated. The board is currently working on the winter 1967 program and welcome suggestions for courses.

Mrs. Dilley hopes that Princeton residents will write the board suggesting courses they would like to take. Suggestions should be addressed to Mrs. Strelch, Princeton Adult School, Box 702.

X marks the spot — and has for decades on end!

The boldface X's above are one measure of the arbitrary nature of the proposed Princeton Township Zoning Ordinance as far as the projected 1,200-foot setback (almost a quarter-mile!) is concerned. And there are dozens of other highly questionable provisions which should be challenged at the public hearing — Township Hall, Monday, May 2, at 8:00 p.m.

IF such an ordinance had been the law of the land as early as 1877, 1890, 1907, 1922, 1929 or even 1947, ground could NOT have been broken for any one of these crossed-out buildings on the main Princeton University Campus.

These are the "illegal structures" and the years they became part of Princeton:

Alexander Hall (1892)	Firestone Library (1947)	McCormick Hall (1922)
Dillon Gymnasium (1947)	*Great Hall at the Graduate College (1913)	McCosh Hall (1907)
Dod Hall (1890)	Guyot Hall (1909)	Palmer Laboratory (1908)
Edwards Hall (1880)	McCarter Theatre (1929)	Pyne Hall (1922)
		Witherspoon Hall (1877)

*—The Great Hall at the Graduate College dominated by Cleveland Memorial Tower lies beyond the limits of this map as do two of Princeton Theological Seminary's beloved structures, Brown and Hodde Halls, both of which would be "illegal" under the 1,200-foot setback stipulated in the proposed Township Ordinance.

THEY WATCH AND WAIT
 At Bird Sanctuary, The Star this spring days, the birds are in the sandpiper Center on Pretty Brook Road is an important sparrow who has no business being around here at all, according to ornithologists who know bird habits and habits.
 He is the Harris Sparrow, spotted earlier this month and still a regular visitor to the feeding stations at Stony Ford. Sometimes he comes for only five minutes, sometimes he stays around for quite a time, presumably preening his feathers, enjoying all the publicity and hoping everyone will catch his best profile.
 Visitors have come to the sanctuary from as far away as St. Louis just to see the sparrow, and visitors up and down the eastern seaboard are almost as prevalent as Princeton Cab Seats.

Four field trips for adults have been scheduled for the coming spring weeks. This Saturday Raymond Richards will lead a trip for bird-watchers

WATCHING THE BIRD WATCHERS: A blind has been constructed from burlap to shield Stony Ford bird-watching from Stony Ford birds. The sanctuary, alive and twitting this spring, is particularly proud of its unexpected guest, the Harris Sparrow. Bird-watchers who sit long enough will probably see him: he loves an audience.

At 7 a.m. Richard Thorsell, Regional Secretary of the American Association of University Women, said that it plans to use the space and will not remove the lease.
 The post has occupied this site for more than 40 years. Its real estate committee is now searching for new quarters in the Princeton area, but it has encountered difficulty.
 The post asks all members and residents of Princeton to inform it of any possible sites in the area. Correspondence should be mailed to Princeton Post 76, American League, 55 Mercer Street.

AWIT TO MEET
 To hear Panel on Creativity, The American Association of University Women will meet at the Riverside School next Wednesday, May 4, at 8:15 p.m. The topic, "The Roots of Creativity," will be discussed by Dr. William Dreyfus, a musical conductor; Fred Hugo Lutz, an artist; and Gerald Rogers, a psychologist.

This will be the second program in a series on "Science—A Creative Discipline." Painting classes will also exhibit their work at the meeting. Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Dirk Mayhew, Mrs. Walter Brown, Mrs. T. E. Jones, Mrs. Everett Shaw and Miss Elvira H. Jones, chairman.

ETS AWARDED GRANT
 For New Program, Educational Testing Service has been awarded a $300,000 grant by the Carnegie Corporation of New York to develop a program to strengthen the abilities of kindergarten and pre-kindergarten children.

ETS will conduct the program in cooperation with the New York City Board of Education. After a year of research, the program will be introduced into public kindergarten classrooms.

Teachers will be provided with materials which will enable them to observe and record their pupils' progress. The project is designed to provide an intellectual profile of the child and to suggest how classroom activities can be planned most advantageously.

PTA OFFICERS ELECTED
 At Princeton High School the Princeton High School PTA has elected the following officers for 1964-65: Mrs. Raymond Male, president; Mrs. David Farnes, first vice-president; Mrs. Heinz Heinemann, second vice-president; Mrs. Sidney Fess, recording secretary; Mrs. Edwin Hirsch, corresponding secretary; Joel B. Johnson, treasurer; and Mrs. Charles Plummer, assistant treasurer.

Mrs. William Cherry was elected chairman of the nominating committee for 1965-67 and Mrs. H. W. Leverenz, who was president from 1961-66, was voted honorary president.

POST LEASE TO EXPIRE
 New Site Sought, American Legion Post 76 will have to leave its present location at 65 Mercer Street when its lease expires on January 1 of next year. Princeton Theatricals, who own the site, want to expand their operations to include a movie theater.

HOMEOWNERS, BEWARE!
Of Disobedient Salesmen. The Public Service Electric and Gas Company has received several reports from people who have been victimized by "furnace repair racketeers."

Such salesmen claim to be associated with Public Service and then recommend costly and unnecessary repairs and cleaning of gas heating systems. Public Service has announced that it cleans heaters without charge and periodically inspects central gas heating equipment.

All servicemen working for Public Service carry identification cards. This procedure has been designed to protect customers from unauthorized salesmen.

BARNARD CLUB TO MEET
To Hear President. The Barnard College Club of Mercer County will meet Thursday at 8:15 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Frederick C. Roberts, 150 Lafayette Road, near Rossmore Park, president of the college, will address the meeting on "The Future of the Liberal Arts College."

Members will also elect new officers for 1966. Those nominated are Mrs. Clive Unish, president; Mrs. Barton Kreuter, secretary; Mrs. Irvin Vane, treasurer; Mrs. Joseph Wisniewsky, membership chairman; Mrs. Harold Low, public relations chairman; Mrs. Richard Magee, Mrs. M. David Altin and Mrs. James Wachter, directors.

The nominating committee for the coming year will include Mrs. Melvin Schulman, Mrs. James Wei and Mrs. Leonard Groom. Mrs. Bernard Gero will also serve on the executive board as past president.

An amendment to the by-laws will also be presented at the meeting relating to terms of office and the composition of the executive board. Dessert and coffee will be served.

RIGHTS SPEECH SET
At Quaker Meeting House. Sidney Reitman, chairman of the New Jersey Committee Against Discrimination in Housing, will speak Saturday, May 7, at 2 at the Quaker Meeting House on problems of discrimination in New Jersey schools and housing. The public is invited.

Mr. Reitman's speech will conclude a day-long session of the New Jersey Branch of the Women's League for Peace; and Freedom. The league is committed to equal rights and opportunities for all and peace through world disarmament and economic development.

A practicing attorney in Newark, Mr. Reitman serves as general counsel to the United Community Corporation, a private anti-poverty organization in Newark. He is a former chairman of the New Jersey Civil Rights Commission and president of the Essex County Urban League.

CARD PARTY PLANNED
To Recruit Hoo School. The Hoo School Auxiliary is planning a card party to be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the School's For Lounge. The party will benefit the school's library, nurse department, infirmary and scholarship fund.
Mrs. Herbert Hagans is chairman of the project, and Mrs. Paul R. Chesbro is serving as an advisor to the card party committee. Other committee members are Mrs. W. Bruce Armstrong, refectory; Mrs. Peter Maglio, decorations; Mrs. Ralph P. Snyder, tickets; Mrs. James C. Sireth, program; and Mrs. Peter DeBaur, table prizes.
Advertising solicitation has been done by Mrs. Norbert Donnelly, Mrs. Jerome Shreker, Mrs. Carroll D. Smith, Mrs. Arthur R. Speck and Mrs. Buysam Yural.

TOUR PLANNED

of Princeton Homes. The Women's Committee for the New Jersey Symphony is planning to conduct its sixth annual Tour of Homes in Princeton on May 12. Five interesting area homes will be open to visitors from 9 to 5. In addition the residence of Governor and Mrs. Hughes will be open to symphony guests from 2 to 4.
Also open will be the home of Mrs. Walter P. Edge, whose late husband was twice governor of New Jersey and a U.S. ambassador to France. The home contains an outstanding collection of European treasures.

The home of former Governor and Mrs. Robert B. Meyner is a charming Colonial house with an unusual collection of heirlooms which belonged to Mrs. Meyner's ancestors. The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Martindell includes a large patio and solarium from which there is a view of broad rolling lawns.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Colston Leigh will open their English-style home, built of Princeton stone. Casement windows look out on walled gardens and pool.
Mrs. Sally Ely's home is an example of a more modern architecture. It includes large glass window expanses, a glass-walled inner court and a pool.

Tickets for the tour can be obtained from ticket chairman Mrs. John Russell, 130 Liberty Place. Mrs. Stanmore Wilson is publicity chairman and Mrs. William Pritchard and Mrs. John Hobbs are in charge of Princeton hostesses.

RUMMAGE SALE SET
As Joint Effort. The B'nai B'rith, Hindsesh, and the Women's Division of the Princeton Jewish Center will sponsor together a rummage sale from May 2 through May 4 at 17 Lehigh Avenue. The sale will be open from 9 to 5 on all three days.
Mrs. Israel Hetsch and Mrs. Ed Zachheim are chairmen of the sale. Those with rummage to contribute should call Mrs. Gordon, 921-8863, or Mrs. Gordon, 921-6817.

COUNCIL TO MEET
At Dinner-Dance. The Central New Jersey Chapter of the Council for Exceptional Children will hold a dinner-dance Saturday at 7:30 at the Old York Inn in Hightstown.
Mrs. Mary Chars, professor Trenton State College, will speak on "The Future of Professional Preparation and Special Education." Dancing will bring the evening to a close.
Special educators and professional and lay individuals are invited to the affair. The cost is $5 per person. Reservations may be made with Joseph B. Capello, 226 Columbia Avenue, Trenton, 386-7912.

HISTORICAL TOUR SET
of Pennington Homes. The Pennington Women's Club will sponsor a tour of historical houses on Saturday, May 7, from 10 to 4. The tour will benefit the Free Public Library of Pennington, and the homes on the tour are all within walking distance of the library.
Participants will be able to visit the home of architect Edward Gross and his wife, which is decorated with art in several media. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Van Dusen features prize-winning crewel embroidery done by Mrs. Hensley.
The home of Mr. and Mrs. Dorey Easterline dates the pre-revolutionary period and was once a toll-gatekeeper's house. The tour will also include the home of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Howe Jr. The two-story Dutch Colonial is one of the oldest houses in the country.

DEFENDS CAR DESIGN: "The average American car is pretty darn safe," says Bob Applegate, long-time mechanic for Turney Motors. The biggest thing in his opinion on the subject of car safety is the guy behind the wheel. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: Do you think the government should have the power to compel safety changes in the design of automobiles?

Where asked: Palmer Square.

Carl Anderson, 100 Stockton Street, Seminary student: Yes—within limits. I think the biggest problem however, rests with the driver. You could build an armored tank and still have a driver who may or may not be able to control it. I think drivers who reach a certain age should be examined every year; I think cars should be more often checked from the west coast and I can see the advantage of car inspections every year the way it is set up in New Jersey. I think it should be a two-pronged attack. If you go after only the manufacturer, you're really not facing the problem squarely. The real problem is more often the drunk driver, careless driver, inconsiderate driver—it's like putting the cart before the horse.

Irving Wrenco, Trenton employee, food services, Princeton University: No, I feel if the government steps in and sets up certain standards of design it may say, "Look from now on you will build cars with only three wheels." If the public doesn't go for it, the manufacturers will be stuck. I think this question of safety should be left up to the makers.

Matt McGonigle, Yardley, Pa., salesman: Yes and no. It shouldn't be necessary. I should think the auto industry would do it on their own, but it seems they haven't done it on their own. What possibly could be done would be for the government to set up standards and give the manufacturer the opportunity to follow through. If this doesn't work... but I think this was done the manufacturer would comply with the government ruling with it wouldn't be necessary to force them. I don't like to see the government forcing anybody to do anything.

Thomas Babashak, Trenton, clerk, administrative services for Shell Chemical, Clarksville, Yes, I think they should because I feel the auto manufacturers aren't paying too much attention to safety themselves. They only acted after they started getting a lot of complaints and after being forced to by public opinion.

Ivan Riddick, 290 Witherspoon Street, employee, Princeton Laboratories: Something like this becomes an individual thing. I think it should be up to the manufacturer and the buyer to be able to choose what safety features he wants. He doesn't have to buy them all if he doesn't want to. Actually, I think the manufacturer is a good guy of offering the buyer safety features. I don't think the government would need to intervene in something like this. In a way I guess they are looking out for the safety of the people but I still think that the auto industry should be allowed to police themselves.

Bob Applegate, Hightstown, mechanic, Turney Motors: Somewhat, but not complete control. I think you're going into free enterprise here, telling free enterprise what to do. The auto industry is a big dent in our economy. I agree a lot of these safety features are good, but they cost money and the factories want to sell their product, too. Somebody's got to foot the bill. I think the government ought to have a little engineering background and find out how cars are built before it is allowed to set standards. I really think the biggest thing is the guy behind the wheel. The government can't do anything about that. If a guy falls asleep at the wheel the best built car in the world isn't going to stand. I'd say the average American-built car is pretty darn safe and I've been around cars a long time. Drivers must be taught to drive within reason and that they've got a lot of weight and a lot of horsepower to control and a lot of road regulations to follow.

Victory Sabary, 436 Harrison Street, self-employed: I think the government should have regulatory jurisdiction but that actual safety design be left up to the engineering departments of the various automotive manufacturers.

Henry Rousseau, Tulane Street, graduate student, languages: Yes, because the manufacturers might not do it themselves. I think there would be a tendency on their part to drag their feet unless they were forced to.

Mrs. David Jensen, 51 Maple Street, housewife: Yes, I do, indeed, because of the terrible accident rate. Something certainly should be done about design. Is compulsory car have seat belts here? I just came from England and I don't know but I think this would be a good example. I think they should be mandatory in every state.

If you hit something the whole front ends give way. I think the government is qualified enough to lay down certain safety standards

Ralph Elder, Hopewell, mechanic for Rich's Service Station, 235 Nassau Street: No, they got their fingers in too many things already. This is one thing they should stay out of. I don't feel the safety thing has that much to do with it, anyway. The person driving has more to do with safety than the car itself.

Ernie Singleton, Trenton, mechanic, Turley Motors No. 1, I don't think the government should have any control over the manufacturers. The manufacturers have been able to put out safe cars up to this point, why should the govern-

ROAD RESEARCH REPORT: MERCEDES-BENZ 250 SE

Another tour de force from Daimler-Benz — a fast new sedan with the functional grace of the 230 SL and the elegance of the luxury 600.

The Mercedes-Benz 250 SE ("C" for Elantrite, or fuel injection) is a superb automobile in every sense of the word. It's a car that's been built for a long time, but it's still a Mercedes that wasn't a regular passenger car. But even though we've come to expect each new model from Daimler-Benz to be the best thing of its kind, we were still surprised by the 250 SE. It's a car that's built for speed, but it's also built for comfort and unexcelled engineering concepts that flow together in the cars that wear the silver star.

At first, the 250 SE didn't seem like a car that was anything but a two-edged sword. The owner of a 250-series sedan is undoubtedly going to find that the car is a bit of a pain in the neck. The twenty-thousand dollar 600 Limousine, but we sometimes have more appointments and design features with it than we can handle.

Similarly, we face something of a dilemma in presenting our evaluation of the new 250 SE. It is a fantastically good car, but it's also a car that's built for speed. It's a car that's built for speed, but it's also a car that's built for speed. It's a car that's built for speed, but it's also a car that's built for speed.

Until the appearance of the 250 SE, the Mercedes-Benz 250 SE was a car that was built for speed. It was a car that was built for speed, but it was also a car that was built for speed. It was a car that was built for speed, but it was also a car that was built for speed.

Mercedes-Benz has expanded line of all the body shell, as well as many other basic components. The company's new line of models is a car that was built for speed. It was a car that was built for speed, but it was also a car that was built for speed.

Mercedes-Benz has expanded line of all the body shell, as well as many other basic components. The company's new line of models is a car that was built for speed. It was a car that was built for speed, but it was also a car that was built for speed.

It really seems to be a neutral-steer car. At very low speeds it'll play to a sharp curve, but as the speed increases it becomes more and more neutral. It's a car that's built for speed, but it's also a car that's built for speed. It's a car that's built for speed, but it's also a car that's built for speed.

Paradoxically, the Mercedes four-speed automatic transmission is in tendency to find forever between upshifts, and the stiffness of the transmission is a bit of a problem. It's a car that's built for speed, but it's also a car that's built for speed. It's a car that's built for speed, but it's also a car that's built for speed.

For the most part, the Mercedes 250 SE is a car that's built for speed. It's a car that's built for speed, but it's also a car that's built for speed. It's a car that's built for speed, but it's also a car that's built for speed.

The power steering is unquestionably the best in the world. We've known engineers in Detroit who've devoted a lot of time, talent, and money to power steering. It's a car that's built for speed, but it's also a car that's built for speed. It's a car that's built for speed, but it's also a car that's built for speed.

Power steering in this line we call the Rover 2000 TC, the best sedan we've ever tested, and it is. But, while the Rover 2000 is an exciting, dynamic concept in any language, the more expensive Rover 250 is only the "ordinary" car.

The Mercedes-Benz 250 SE is an extraordinarily good car, which is a fact that's built for speed. It's a car that's built for speed, but it's also a car that's built for speed. It's a car that's built for speed, but it's also a car that's built for speed.

ART In Princeton

ARTISTS IN BUD

Cino B. Cicchini & Co. The Art Association is showing at McCarter Theatre works in various mediums by Cino Cicchini and his young students. Mr. Cicchini, who teaches Art at the Riverside School, was "key" in setting up the Riverside Art Shows which have done much to bring children in contact with different art forms in a casual way and in a familiar atmosphere. In his classrooms, he is noted for the contagion of enthusiasm and for fostering experimentation and self-expression.

His children's exhibits at McCarter are four just efforts and are decorative, colorful and amusing. Underwater fish, made of colored foil etc. are full of movement and spirit. The composition "Birds," of copper in a mosaic tree, has a Cyclo of style. These are pretty standard group projects and certainly have been instructive in design and material sense.

Cino Cicchini's own works are paintings, collages, sculpture, wood yarn designs and contraptions. His gift for fantasy is usually evident as in the major piece called "Stalking, Watching Lion," a collage composition with an array of flowers and birds surrounding his lion, all made of stitched materials, heads and bottoms. "The Banquet" is more true to life with a contrast of high key blooms with a dark outer mass which forms a frame within a frame. "Artist's Lunch" will amuse; it is rather substantial provender for a proverbial starving artist in his attic.

An active imagination, a curiosity and excitement for the use of different ways of expressing an idea are all there in Cicchini's work. It's wonderful that this can be communicated to the students so successfully.

Toshiko Takaezu. We are accustomed to being pleased by the tasteful arrangement of exhibits at Gallery 100. Sometimes there is an exceptionally appealing look which we find there now in the show of ceramics and textiles by Toshiko Takaezu, through May 21.

Pots are difficult to present; after another, no matter how individual they may be. These have been shown to full advantage; two or three of contrasting size and shape against a white wall, lit from above so that the shadows emphasize their contours and dramatize the whole effect. Other blend harmoniously with lengths of Miss Takaezu's handwoven materials, the colors and textures of cloth and stoneware playing with and against each other.

Still other pots hold their own beneath heavily woven rugs which, to many of us, in design and color scheme, seem to be the strongest and most fascinating artistic expressions in the show. One of the rugs called "Early Spring" communicates the awakening of woodland. The trees are in transition from black to grey with a touch of lavender and yellow ochre creeping into the bark and branches. The texture of the wool, used heavily and lightly, loosely and tightly, is an intriguing study.

In the short biography prepared for the gallery, one word—"integrity"—stuck in our minds as being the crux of the description of Miss Takaezu's work. None fits better the attitude so obvious in her pots and textiles. Some shapes, some textures we enjoy more than others, but all exhibits have been approached with honesty and a determination to make each object complete in itself.

Watercolors at Nassau. Watercolors by Doreen H. Tribble are being shown at the Nassau Club until May 15. Mrs. Tribble has worked many years as a fashion designer, teacher and artist. She is a member of the American Watercolor Society.

The National Association of Women Artists and the National Arts Club and she has received many important awards in national exhibitions. In Princeton, she has been instrumental in starting the Princeton Art Association and has shown in local shows for many years. In 1964 she had a one man show at the Present Day Club.

Her present collection of flowers is truly adapted to the spring. One comes away with a happy impression of a food and flower feast from the numerous still life composed of bright yellow blooms. Galettes of color and a nice sense of using the medium of food are evident in most of the pictures. We noted especially a still life with daffodils against a cyclamen plant, the flowers of which were beautifully handled as well as the whole design. Only one beach scene was exhibited, and though small, it has a sharpness and fair which we like in that well-remembered series.

Student Weaving Show. This week in the windows of Clayton's on Palmer Square, there will be shown rugs, tapestries and wall hangings done by the students of Ann Demare-Wiseman who is well-known to Princeton for her strong art tapestries and her valuable contributions to the artistic life of the community. Her classes are small and her students are hard working. They are urged to cut and dye their own materials, (perhaps you have seen the wool hanging like so much spaghetti on bushes and lines around town) and they much create their own designs.

Clinda Iltvick's home portrait of her dog is one of the outstanding offerings, well-designed, interestingly worked and most amusing. Margerite Hecay has one style in a classic New England attachment with subtle colors and intricate design. Alvin Ploner uses a wonderful non-American color scheme and other excellent work with realistic and abstract ideas. It is interesting to see what a variety this medium produces.

Midland School Benefit. An exhibit of painting seldom available for public showing will be an attraction of "A Collection of the Arts" to be held at Hamilton Farms for the benefit of the Midland School for Brain-Injured Children on April 30, (from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.) and on May 1, 2, and 3 (from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.). Admission for adults is $2 and for students, $1.

Besides the works of Impressionists and Post-Impressionists, there will be a show of contemporary art made possible through the cooperation of the Art Gallery of Madison, the Crafts Student League of New York and Gallery 100 of Princeton. Tickets for this event are on sale at Gallery 100, 100 Nassau Street.

POSTER SHOW OPENS

At the Mercer Street Gallery. An exhibition of posters executed by leading American artists for the "Paris Review" magazine is now open at the Mercer Street Gallery. The show consists of a series of silk screens and lithographs depicting a variety of styles and subjects.

Among the artists represented are Princeton University's artist-in-residence Estelle Ristic, pop artist Andy Warhol and abstract expressionist Robert Motherwell. The posters were recently shown in New York at the Byron Gallery.

The show will run until May. The Mercer Street Gallery is also displaying graphic drawings and watercolors by young artists in New York and Paris.

freshman, Jayvee and varsity races. The libran freshmen came from behind to triumph by a scant foot, the varsity's victory — by a length and a quarter — added to its perfect record that dates back to 1964.

Pennsylvania's varsity had a bit of trouble pulling away from Princeton and Columbia in the Child's Cup race, but at the mile mark, owed a full-length lead. Orange and Black oars drove hard with a half mile to go, cutting into the Quakers' margin and eventually narrowed the deficit to half a length.

Penn remained in control, however, leading by that margin at the finish. A good tail wind aided in the highly respectable time of 9:38.1, with the Tigers clocked in 9:40. Columbia, rowing in a borrowed rig, was five lengths off the pace.

The race was delayed for 20 minutes while the New Yorkers went back to the boat house for repairs to their shell. Ex-freshman, Penn freshman and Jayvee crews led Princeton across the line by respective margins of four and one lengths, with Columbia always a distant third.

The regatta ended the brief home rowing season, with the Compton and Carnegie Cup races on the schedule during the next two weekends. Harvard, the nation's best in 1965, will be heavily favored to defeat Princeton and M.I.T. in the Compton Cup regatta on the Charles River Saturday.

Yale and Cornell are the opposition the following week at Ithaca. The Tigers have not won in that event since 1952.

LACROSSE TEAM DRUBBED
By Brown, 11 to 3. Fears that Brown has the best lacrosse team in the Ivy League turned into a nightmare Saturday at Providence as Princeton's defending champions absorbed a wholly unexpected 11-3 shellacking. The triumph left the Bruins, who only joined the circuit three years ago, in firm possession of first place with a 5-0 mark and assurance of no worse than a tie for the 1966 title. They have only a game with Cornell at no worse than 2-2 at the end of the first period, the Tigers saw their defense come apart and their attack stilled during the remainder of the game. Brown beat goalie Graeme Flanders four times in the second quarter to lead, 6-2, at the intermission, and raised its margin to 9-3 before the third round ended.

Princeton will face Ithaca Place Harvard at Cambridge Saturday, aware that its long domination of the Ivy League is nearing an end. Not since 1956, when Yale won the title in the first year of play, has the Orange and Black finished out of first place.

Pennies play their part in all our lives. They once paid for a lollipop or a back-yard "cicrus" show. Perhaps today the penny may buy less, but the importance of putting pennies aside in savings is a fine lesson for a child to learn. Pennies are important at the Princeton Bank, because every penny added to others builds dollars. Even if you feel your banking business is penny size, there's a welcome waiting for you at any of the three offices of the Princeton Bank, where Personal Banking service is open to all.

DOLLARS

Dollars grow and grow when you start your own firm policy of saving a part of all you earn. You can't keep all the dollars you earn, but a part is yours to keep — to save. And if emergencies arise, when you need cash for a new home or a new car, Personal Banking service will make it easy for you to borrow and pay back the simplest and least expensive way. QUIET WEEKEND DUE

Nast Tiger Teams on Road.

Virtually every Princeton athletic team will be in action away from home this weekend, creating a major lull in spectator sports. Between the unseasonably chill weather and the troubles that have beset most of the Tiger units of late, disappointment may be the principal dish served up by the time the 1966 season comes to a close.

Last weekend was a particularly dark day for those who sat in on the proceedings at Clarke Field, reeked to the cat to watch the crew races and then waited for the lacrosse season from Providence. In simultaneous action, the ball team lost its fourth in its last five games, all six games which had won a week earlier at Annapolis were defeated on Carnegie, and the lacrosse team took its worst beating since formal Ivy play began a decade ago.

In Palmer Stadium, Harvard's powerful track team continued its mastery over Princeton with a 93-61 triumph, moving into its third year without a loss in dual meet competition. The last time the Tigers defeated a Crimson team in this sport was in 1922, although the series lapsed for many years after World War II.

There was success recorded on two fronts, as untested records were maintained in tennis and golf. Georgetown became the tennis team's fourth straight victim by a 7-2 score, while the golfers trimmed Army, 3-2, and Colgate, 4-3, at Springdale to run their record to 6-0. Of all the spring sport triumphs, however, only Coach John Conroy's racket squad has a good chance of winning a league title.

Penn, Cornell Sweep. Every one of the Princeton crews which went to the stake boats Saturday on Lake Carnegie was defeated, in each case by opponents which were rowing for the first time this season. In contrast, the races were the third for each entry in the Tiger navy.

Cornell's 150-lb. shells opened the program by taking the

"The Trophy Belongs to Princeton, Not to Me"

Last month, Bill Bradley received the James E. Sullivan Award as the Amateur Athlete of the Year — the only basketball player so honored in more than three decades. Last week, in a typically selfless gesture, he gave the trophy to Princeton University.

The occasion was the annual dinner of the University Cottage Club — held Friday in New York — and Bradley was present during a brief break in his studies as a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford. He told the 300 Princetonians at the dinner:

"After careful thought, I have decided to follow my strong desire by giving my Sullivan Award trophy to Princeton in expression of my gratitude for the opportunity to play basketball at Princeton and to play basketball under conditions which apply to Princeton athletes."

"I believe that this award came to me as much because I played at Princeton as because I may have played well." The Sullivan Award was given to Bradley "for the Amateur Athlete who by performance, example and good influence did the most during 1965 to advance the cause of amateur sports and good sportsmanship."

Accepting the trophy on the University's behalf was Asa S. Bushnell, also a Cottage Club member, former Director of Athletics at Princeton and now Commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference. "Princeton," he said, "needs nothing to help it remember Bill Bradley, but I know that the University will deeply appreciate this meaningful gift."

with sophomore Endriks's half-mile ranking as one of the top performers in the east this spring.

Railier in the week, the Tigers won from Rutgers, 85 to 70. The outcome, ranked as an upset on previous form shown by the two teams, was the Scarlet's first loss in five meets.

NEAR NO-HITTER

For Dartmouth Pitcher, the trouble that Princeton's baseball team has had making base hits was thoroughly in evidence again on Saturday as the Tigers lost to Dartmouth, 2-0, on Clarke Field. It was the identical score by which the Green had won at Hanover last spring.

Indian hurler Pete Ruber came close to allowing no hits at all, the first Tiger safely to base was a punt by Frank Blomdi.

That would have gone foul had the third baseman let it roll. The second was a loud double off the bat of Bob Weber that curved just enough away from left fielder Barry Machado to keep it from being caught.

Otherwise, the Tigers were completely docile, the last 15 batters going out in order. Another fine pitching performance by Graham Marcovitz was unavailing, although it did serve to increase the number of innings he has pitched in league action to 18 with only one earned run.

Dartmouth scored in the first on successive singles and a fielder's choice. The victor's second hit, in the fourth, was made possible by an error charged to Ron Landeck at short.

Further frustrating indication of Princeton's inability to

DEAD INDIAN: Henry Ota, Dartmouth first baseman, was and departed on the short end of a 3-0 count. A rare Tiger rally brought the Orange and black a 4-3 lead but it vanished shortly thereafter on the wings of considerable inept play. The contest was marred by a total of 10 strikeouts, 11 walks and 11 errors.

TRACKMEN WIN TWO
For 3-1 Meet Record. Led by the return of sprinter Vince Boccanfuso and giving an improved showing in the flat races, the Princeton High School track team recorded a pair of victories last week.
Bridgewater-Raritan fell Friday, 74-51, and New Brunswick
last Wednesday, 64-62.

Ahead lies a key meet Friday with Trenton. PHS coach Jerry Croninger described Trenton, the host team, as "one of the stronger opponents we'll meet this year." He added:
"Our high jumpers and sprinters will have to come through and we'll have to score a lot of seconds and thirds."

Tuesday, the Blue and White will entertain Notre Dame.
Starting time is 4 p.m.

Sweeping to a first place finish in 11 of 14 events, PHS and Little trouble outdistancing Bridgewater. Once again, the team was led by Bart Bennett, who captured both the low and high hurdles and the broad jump (20-31), marking the third time he has pulled this cinder hat trick in four meets.
Bart now has 58 points and Croninger reported that if he continues at this rate "the whole distance," then Bart will set a school scoring record.

Other first place winners:
Ed McEwen in the 100 (10.9);
Pete Michael in the mile (4:47);
George Fifield in the 800
(5:41); Boccanfuso in the 220 (23.5); Don Corrington in the dixie (1:29.4); Carl Deavalecable in the shot (51-4); and Keith Conover in the javelin (179-8 1/2). Bob Way continued undefeated in the pole vault with a leap of 11-0. Becen-fuso, Dave Moomaw and Dan Tindale finished second in the 100, 400 and javelin respectively.

Sweet Taste of Victory.
Sweet as the Bridgewater win was, it couldn't approach the sugar content of the 64-62 cliff-hanger over New Brunswick.
It marked the second consecutive year PHS has squeaked by the always-strong Zebrus - 1965's margin was 59-58 - and last year's triumph was the first ever recorded by a Princeton High squad over New Brunswick.

Victory for both schools hung on the outcome of the broad jump, where PHS needed a second to win. It got it from (who else?) Bennett.
Ironically, Bennett's meet-winning jump of 20-7 was the best of his career, yet it marked the first time this season he failed to win the event.

"All our runners did an excellent job," commented Croninger. "Boccanfuso's scoring helped and we had some crucial placements, especially two thirds by Wood and Fifield."
Craig Wood was third in the 800 and Fifield in the 400.

come out on top in only six of 14 events they captured 130 seconds. Those crucial running-up points were scored by Ed McEwen in the 100, Moonaw in the 400, DeCavalante and Corrington in the short and sprints, Mike Conant and Jeff Bullock in the 800 and 220, John Kosko, 2-mile, Craig Bechtel, javelin, McEwen tied for second in the high jump and, as noted, Bennett was second in the broad jump.

Adding five points each for another first place wins were Bennett in the high and low hurdles (119 and 198), Bogdanowicz (10.1) in the 100; Michael, who ran a 4:49 mile; Way in the Vault (11-0) and Keith Conover in the javelin, (173 ft.).

DOG SHOW SCHEDULED
By Trenton Kennel Club. The first major outdoor dog show of the 1966 season will be sponsored by the Trenton Kennel Club Sunday, May 8, at 119, 120 and 121, Artillery Grounds in Trenton. More than 2,600 dogs were entered in last year's show, making it the fourth largest in the nation.

Among the 22 specialties highlighted at the show will be the first licensed specialty of the American Ingha APSO Club. Entries will represent every region of the United States. The judges have been recruited from 14 states and as far away as California.

The event will begin at 9 a.m. Tickets are now available from the club at $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children. The show will be managed by the Fuley Dog Show Organization of Philadelphia.

HORSE SHOW PLANNED
By Meadow Mount Farm. The sixth annual Meadow Mount Farm Horse Show will be held Saturday, May 14, at the farm on Cherry Hill Road. The show will benefit the U.S. equestrian team.

The farm's director, Major Deszo Saluzzi, will supervise include Mrs. J. Richardson Dillworth, president; Mrs. Robert Stranly, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. T. Earl Anderson III, Mrs. Bruce Armstrong, Mrs. George F. Korman, Mrs. Frederick Lawrence, Casper Pennek, Mrs. M. Stuleman, Peyton Mrs. James Sayen and Richard W. Van Horne.

SAILORS RECALMED
Wind Elsewhere on Sunday. The weekly racing program of the Carnegie Sailing Club was cut short Sunday by an almost total lack of wind. Four Peacocks and six 14-foot sloops were on the water for 90 minutes before the first of them crossed the finish line.

The lead changed hands frequently, but Wal Gibson was in his 14-footer after the first mark and John Reeder was in control of the Penguins after Kevin Mason, Harry Flock and second mark, Reeder led his crew. Trailing were Phil Holt, Dexter Miller and Larry Raffalli.

Wal Gibson with Karen Gibson as crew and Bob Miller with Peter Hirsch as crew led the 14-foot sloops with 12.0 points each. They were followed by John Hemphill and Tom Huntington.

LITTLE LEAGUE SET
In West Windsor. The West Windsor Little League will get under way Monday evening with the opening game between American Cynamid and Thorne's Pharmacy set to start at 8 at the R. J. Ward Field on North Post Road.

A 15-game schedule has been arranged between the six member teams—Thorne's, Cynamid, Lions Club, Craft Cleaners, Ellsworth A.C. and First National Bank. Each will play two games a week before the championship be held in late June. A post-season playoff between the winners of each half will follow the regular schedule.

League President Dick Keane has announced that the annual tag day will be held May 14. Parents who are able to assist in the fund-raising campaign are asked to contact manager of their son's team.

Following tryouts, boys have been assigned to these teams: Thorne's Farmway, John Cross, Jeff Drummond, Kevin McMillan, Joseph Robbins, and Bruce Wolfman. Lions Club, Douglas Harrier, Douglas Smith, Mike Shadow, and Thomas Sherrill. Craft Cleaners: Glen McLean, Steve Greenblatt, Frank Bloom, John Costas, and Tom Janik.

Ellsworth A.C., Mike Howard, James Howard, Joseph Czelowski, Scott Johnson, Shaun Ellsworth, Richard Wilson, and Harry Ruback. First National Bank: Grover Servis, James Meehan, Mike Randall, David Cantrell, Charles Brodzewski, James Bullock, and David Larrabee. American Cynamid: Walter Harris,

Electricity is today's biggest household bargain

Although your electric bills may be higher now than they were back in 1940, consider all the appliances you've added — appliances which spell the difference between old fashioned drudgery and modern living. In fact, the average home uses more than four times the amount of electricity today than in 1940. But the combination of rate reductions and increased use of electricity has resulted in a 44% decrease in the average unit cost of electricity since then. Yes, by bucking the trend of soaring prices, we've been able to maintain electricity's position as your biggest — and best — household bargain.

How To Survive

We learned that national authorities have listed the most frequent causes of fires as follows: Heating the last suffered the least.

1. Careless smoking and use of open matches;
2. Electrical defects;
3. Short-circuited, overloaded circuits;
4. Defective heating equipment;
5. Careless handling and use of flammable liquids;
6. Defective or overloaded chimneys and flues;
7. Children and matches;
8. Sparks on roofs.

The first three hazards cause almost three out of four of all home fires. They advise that the best way to put out a food or grease fire on the stove is to place a metal cover on the burning pot or pan. We would like to serve you in every possible way, and bring you this column weekly as a contribution to public safety. Kammer Buick-DeSille Co., Route 206, opp. Princeton Airport, 821-2222.

them all together in one game will be answered next on Friday when it is played at the Park. On Wednesday, it will be at B.M.I.

Zoll deserved better treatment than he received Friday in the bottom of the fifth, when Hun scored three runs. Scott Anderson reached base via an error by Jack Van Zandt, second baseman for PHS. Anderson promptly scored and advanced to third on an infield out. He scored when Tom Yoder bobbed Mike Miller's shot at short for a two-base error.

Miller stole third. Tommy Wood, hurling for the Little Toppers, hit MacLeod. MacLeod stole second. Catcher Rudy Belzel then hit a comebacker to Wood, who threw hard and wide-to first. Miller and MacLeod, scoring on the three-base error.

PHS ended with six errors. Hun, in turn, committed four. Sandy Bing, Hun coach, summed it up when he said, "Neither team deserved to win."

PHS scored two runs in second when MacLeod doubled and came home on a single by Wood who advanced on a throwing error by Tom Howell. Hun shortstop, MacLeod, later scored on a fielder's choice. A leadoff double by Van Zandt in the fifth was wasted.

At Trenton Thursday, PHS suffered the agony again this afternoon in losing in the final inning. Chris Fischer, hard-kick senior southpaw for PHS, gave up only two hits but sustained his third defeat without a win.

He had largely himself to blame. Pete Simonelli, Trenton third baseman, singled after one was down in the seventh, and advanced to third on two wild pitches. He scored when catcher Lou Balesieri threw the ball into left field, trying to nail him at third.

PHS tallied one run in the third on singles by Fischer and MacLeod, and Yoder's sacrifice to take a 1-0 lead. It was short-lived as Trenton responded with three runs in the same inning.

The visitors scored a 3-3 tie in the fifth, combining singles by MacLeod and Yoder.

Obituaries

Thomas J. Wertenbaker, 67, of 14 Prospect Ave., former chairman of the history department at Princeton University, died on April 22 in Princeton Hospital after suffering a stroke. He was the husband of Mrs. Sarah M. Wertenbaker.

Dr. Wertenbaker, an authority of the American rational period, held the Edwards American history chair, emeritus, at the University. He was a member of the faculty for 27 years, retiring in 1947.

A native of Charlottesville, Va., Dr. Wertenbaker was graduated in 1902 from the University of Virginia, which awarded him the doctorate in 1910. Early in his career, he taught at Virginia, where his grandfather had been appointed librarian by the school's founder, Thomas Jefferson.

Dr. Wertenbaker served as editor of the Baltimore News for several years. He was a member of the New York Evening Sun editorial staff from 1917 to 1923. In 1925, he was appointed Edwards Professor of American History at Princeton, becoming department chairman three years later. He served one-year periods on the faculties of the University of Göttingen, Germany, and at Oxford University.

His most significant work was a three-volume series, "The Foundation of American Civilization." He also published "Virginia Under the Stars," "Fratricide and Plebeian in Virginia," "Planters of Colonial Virginia," and "The First American." His last major work, "Give Me Liberty: The Struggle for Self Government in Virginia," was published in 1956. He also wrote a history of Princeton University.

The British government honored Dr. Wertenbaker in 1946 for his service as chairman of the Princeton chapter of British war relief during World War II. He was a past president of the American Historical Society and belonged to numerous other historical groups. He received the New Jersey Historical Society Award for distinguished contributions.

A baseball enthusiast, he was a familiar figure at the University's home games. He was also an accomplished amateur architect, having de-

Satisfaction Guaranteed

When Dr. Thomas J. Wertenbaker, whose obituary appears on this page, joined the Princeton faculty, Woodrow Wilson was president of the University. Dr. Wertenbaker often enjoyed telling this anecdote:

An anxious mother inquired of President Wilson, "Are you sure that you can give my son the education he needs?"

The Wilsonian replied: "Madame, we guarantee satisfaction or we return the boy."

signed a fraternity house at the University of Virginia and his own home in Princeton.

Also surviving is a son, Thomas J. Wertenbaker Jr., of Albuquerque, N. M.

Gravestone services were held at the University of Virginia cemetery. Local arrangements were under the direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

Mrs. J. Winifred Asher, 64, of 49 Nassau Street died on April 13 while visiting her son in Newport News, Va. She was the widow of H. B. Asher.

A native of Iowa and a former school teacher in Marshall County, Ia., Mrs. Asher was employed by the Bell Telephone Company of Michigan for 35 years. She was a member of the Senior Citizens Club of Princeton.

Surviving are five children, Mrs. Wilma Davis, with whom she lived; Mrs. Phyllis Williams of Franklin, Mich.; James Stewart of Waterloo, Ia.; Peter Stewart of Marshalltown, Ia.; and Kenneth Stewart of Newport News. All children of her first marriage to the late James Stewart. Also surviving are three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

The service was held in Marshalltown, Ia., by the Rev. John Alexander of the First Congregational Church officiating. Interment was in the LaMoille (Ia.) Cemetery.

Levitt B. Hoffman, 73, a former resident of Princeton and Rocky Hill, died on April 15 in West Palm Beach, Fla. He was the widower of Florence N. Hoffman.

A veteran of World War I, Mr. Hoffman is survived by a niece, Mrs. Catherine H. Love of Rocky Hill, and an aunt.

The service and interment were held in Florida.

Mrs. Mary Lou H. Stockwell, 76, a former missionary in the Belgian Congo, died on April 21 in Freehold.

A one-time resident of Roosevelt, Mrs. Stockwell and her late husband, John Stockwell, were among the first American missionaries to enter the Congo. She was associated with the USO during World War II.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Mack of Roosevelt, a son, Walter I. Stockwell of California, two sisters and a brother.

The service was held in Hightstown, the Rev. Frederick Mills of the Hightstown Methodist Church officiating. Interment was in Ewing Cemetery.

Henry A. Douglas, 65, of 130 John Street, died on April 22 in Princeton Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Margaret Douglas.

A native of New York City, Mr. Douglas lived in Princeton for more than 50 years. He was a member of the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, Aaron Lodge 8, F&AM; King David Chapter 6, Royal Arch, Douglas's Commandery 10, Knights Templar; Opbir Conventory 46, Klutha Temple 120.

By PBS in Track. Visiting Princeton from Los Angeles, much ad much better against Princeton High School on the oval last year, was simply no match for the Little Tigers on the track. The Blue and White captured first place in 13 of 14 events, winning 97-29.

The Blue and White swept the discus, shot and 440. Only the big jump where Franklin triumphed with a jump of 6.0 was it shut out. As a consequence, PBS increased its dual meet record to 4-1.

Bart Barnett continues to score at a record-breaking pace, taking the first spot in the low and high hurdles and the broad jump for the fourth time this season. He now has 73 points. His time of 19.6 in the low hurdles was his best clocking of the year.

New in the winner's circle for PBS was John Coburn, a Junior, who captured the mile with a 4:54.3 clocking. Pete Michael, Princeton's most successful mile, skipped the event to run the mile, which he won in 10:21.3.

Mike Conant took the 800 and Vince Bocanowski was a double winner, springing to victory in the 100 and 220 in times of 10.4 and 27.2. Franklin's lack of depth was evident in the 440 which has been a soft spot for the Little Tigers but which they swept Tuesday with George Field (53.7). Dave Moore and Jim Scullin reclaimed 220 runner, finishing 1-2-3.

Other winners: Carl Devaracalcante in the discus (136-2) and shot (52-9) and Robert May in the vault. Dan Tindale unceremoniously took over the javelin to win that event with a distance of 198-10, and that is really reaching the outship to the Hun School. A credit for a high school performer.

Computer Service Here. A management service organization that can do everything from sending out medical bills to scheduling the construction of corrugated boxes has announced the availability of its new NCR 315 Computer and a staff of experts.

Minuteman Information Systems, Inc. 750 Sate Road, was founded in August by Ellwood Kaufman and Herbert R. Kane. Mr. Kaufman was founder of Applied Data Research, Inc. and served as its president until he resigned to form MIS.

Mr. Kane has been in business in Princeton for the past decade and was president of Lahiere-Kane Motors, Inc. for five years.

MIS has applied the utility concept of computer usage to a wide range of customers on the eastern seaboard. By developing and retaining specialized systems that can serve more than one company, MIS is able to keep costs down for any single client using the service.

Truck maintenance reporting, inventory reporting, sales analysis, payroll preparation, the handling of accounts receivable and corrugated box scheduling are among the services offered by MIS.

The NCR Computer, valued at more than $300,000, accepts input in the form of punched card or punched paper tape and can produce reports at the rate of 1000 lines per minute.

The MIS system also includes two NCR Carr Random Access Memory (CRAM) units capable of processing information at the rate of 100,000 characters per second.

MIS chose the large NCR Computer because MIS and National Cash Register are both oriented toward commercial applications. National Cash Register has made all its established programs for industry, as well as for retail and wholesale operations, available to MIS.

In addition to Mr. Kaufman and Mr. Kane, MIS includes John C. Van Cleave, who joined the firm in January as Operations Manager, John C. Campbell III and Christopher J. Saver as the programmers.

MAY LUNCHEON SET

By United Church Women. The Summer convocation of the United Church Women of Princeton will be discussed at the annual May Fellowship Day luncheon to be held at 12:30 p.m. next Friday, May 6, at the YMCA.

Offering at the past six May luncheons has provided camp scholarships for Princeton children. Speakers and topics are: David G. Rahr and Robert S. Mani, Princeton University summer camps; Donald C. McFerrin of Princeton Seminary, the YMCA camps; and Mrs. Howard B. Woodward Jr., general secretary of the YWCA, Princeton YWCA camps.

Mrs. George Loos is chairman of program and arrangements. Cooperating churches are First Baptist, Calvin Baptist, Society of Friends First Presbyterian, St. Paul's Presbyterian, Witherspoon Presbyterian, Princeton Methodist, Mt. Hope A.M.E., Trinity Episcopal and All Saints' Chapel.

The cost of the luncheon is $1.50. Reservations may be made by all Church Women and their guests by calling Mrs. Loos (924-0003) or Mrs. Robert Westover (921-2494) before May 2.

BELLRINGERS TO RALLY

In Cranbury. Twenty handbell choirs, numbering some 245 bellringers and 175 bells, are expected at the 13th annual Church Handbell Festival at Cranbury Presbyterian Church. A combined concert at 4 p.m. on Sunday will climax the two-day session.

Theme of the festival will be Negro spiritual groups from Trenton, Pennington, Princeton, Atlantic City and Albany, N. Y., will be among those taking part, as well as Cranbury's own choir, affiliated with the host church.

The Princeton contingent will be the Memorial Handbell Choir of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, led by Mrs. Patricia Wright. It will join the men's choir of the spiritual, "My Lord, What a Morning." Members of the Albany group will guest at St. Andrew's church.

The Rev. Dr. Carl J. C. Wolf will officiate at the service. A men's choir, directed by Clyde Schler, is also scheduled. Dr. Doris Watson of Oakhurst, whose early work with handbell choirs in the 1950's was largely responsible for the development of ringer choral throughout the country, is festival director.

Mrs. John C. Marsh Jr. of Cranbury is chairman of the festival committee, which has arranged for a dinner in the parish house prepared by the Trinity Presbyterian church and for overnight housing in the community. In 1954, eight

SMALL ANIMAL RESCUE LEAGUE

This is the ONLY organization in the Princeton area which cares for stray dogs and cats and arranges for their adoption.

Picked-up animals are kept for 7 days to give owners a chance to claim them - and if they do turn up, they pay the boarding charge, which is otherwise borne by the Borough or Township.

After 7 days the League takes over an unclaimed animal and boards it until a home is found for it. In 1965, 173 lost animals were returned to their owners and 434 went to new homes.

This service to the community is supported SOLELY by contributions, which are tax-deductible. A greatly increased membership is necessary to ensure the continuance of the work. Won't you please enroll now as a member, sending your cheque, made out to Princeton Small Animal Rescue League, to 10 reasons why you should buy a home in Wynnewood at Cranbury:

- Wynnewood at Cranbury is a custom-crafted community of thirty lovely homes, set against a backdrop of fine old trees.
- Cranbury is one of New Jersey's few remaining "small-town" towns... a real village atmosphere!
- Cranbury is 6 miles from Princeton, 50 minutes from mid-town Manhattan.
- All lots are a MINIMUM of one full acre.
- Fine school system —including all-new Regional High School.
- Elegance of design is overwhelming!
- Solidity of construction is paramount!
- Every home has the most modern of kitchens, with the new Caloric "75" double-oven range and dishwasher included.
- All utilities: curbs, walks, etc. are in and paid for!
- Gracious covered portico and full 2-car garages.

There are really hundreds of reasons why you should own a Wynnewood at Cranbury home! See for yourself.

Prices range from $34,900 to $40,000

GRAND OPENING
KENSINGTON PARK establishes the new standard of value!

Homes priced from $23,500

The Sutton - 4-bedroom colonial. . . Neptune Developers has brought to New Jersey spacious, gracious living at a cost too good to be true. The living room invites gracious entertaining while the family room provides the perfect space for comfort and fun. There is an extra deep basement, 2-car garage, and, of course, the oval shaped formal dining room, but the final crowning achievement is the kitchen-dinette, which provides over 200 feet of modern convenience. All in all we think this Sutton is a lot of house. . . and quite a value.

FIVE BEDROOMS . . . white clapboards, black shutters, lofty trees in the background . . . and a beautiful Edgerstoune, too. For the children, Johnson Park School is only a short walk away. For you, there is a large living room with fireplace, separate dining room, big screened porch, modern kitchen, paneled study, powder room, 5 bedrooms, 3 baths. Here is a beautiful home in ooc of Princeton's most charming residential neighborhoods.
(Sole Agent) $59,500

SMALL ESTATE . . . on historic Mercer Road, in beautiful Lawrenceville, this charming Cape Cod is hidden behind its hedges and its fine foliage. Approximately 2 1/2 acres of land, with many shade trees and about half the lawn enclosed by a new fence of cedar pickets. Indoors there is a huge, pine-paneled living room with fireplace,
library with fireplace, dining room,
modern kitchen and powder room.
Upstairs, 3 bedrooms and bath. New, pine-paneled study in basement.
House freshly painted outdoors with two coats of best grade acrylic paint.
Large screened porch opening into the garden.

HOUSE WITH A VIEW . . . only two years old, this commodious bilevel has 3 bedrooms, den (or 4th bedroom) 2 baths and powder room.
Covered terrace for outdoor living.
On a quiet circle in a fine new neighborhood where your children will find plenty of playmates. Spacious living-dining areas, large recreation room downstairs, pretty kitchen with plenty of breakfast space.
(Sole Agent) $34,000

EDGERSTOUNE . . . a lovely home, Colonial in appearance, with yellow clapboards and white trim. Built on a knoll, surrounded by broad lawns, there is a fenced yard for the children to play in. Lower level: family room, powder room and laundry — and an exit to the garden. Main level: living room with fireplace, dining room with window walls and draw draperies, and an all-electric kitchen with breakfast space. Upper level: 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, excellent closets, plus expansion attic. (Sole Agent) $55,000

RHAPSODY . . . very soon, the clean, pale green of Spring will surround this especially special home as every tree on the property bursts into leaf.
It's wonderful what can be done on a small lot with the right kind of landscaping and plenty of trees. The house itself has living room with fireplace, dining room, large kitchen breakfast area, paneled family room with fireplace, 5 bedrooms, 3 baths and powder room. Wall-to-wall carpeting. Screened porch. All schools within walking distance. $59,500
